In an alternative universe, the human race has colonised the solar system and established colonies on Mars, Earth, and the Moon. However, there is a major problem with the colonisation plans: the colonists are not the only ones who are living on Earth. In response to the threat of alien life forms, a special team of colonists known as the Orbital Patrol have been sent to Earth to fight against the alien threat.

One day, in an attempt to save a planet from alien invaders, they are attacked by a new type of life form called a Gargantia, which has the power to wipe out entire planets. As a result of the attacks, humanity is forced to retreat to Mars to find a way back home.

In an alternative universe, the Earth has been colonised by space pirates, who seek to conquer the universe for their own personal gain. In order to protect their planet from these alien forces, Earth's only hope of survival lies in the ability to pilot giant mechas known as Titans.

Titans, a race of technologically advanced humanoid beings, have the power to vanquish the forces of darkness, but are not as strong as they once were. The only way to stop them is for the Titans to become fully sentient, and this would require a great amount of energy and resources. However, this is not the only challenge these Titans face, as a new threat emerges that threatens to destroy everything they hold dear, including their very existence.
